STORIES

Birthday Police When Scissors lies about his birthday at a restaurant to get free cake, Rock, Paper, and Scissors find themselves on the run from the Birthday Police.

Paper's Big Lie (featuring Pencil) Paper lies about working for a big tech company to impress his smart neighbor, Pencil. But Paper's lie gets out of control, and soon he finds himself in a situation where he must save the world from a race of aliens threatening the planet.

Pogo Sticks Rock, Paper, and Scissors' upstairs neighbors, The Rat Bros, make our trio feel uncool for not having the latest cool item: pogo sticks. So, Rock, Paper, and Scissors attempt to attain pogo sticks, ultimately taking them to the home of a woman who literally controls what's cool.

Hide and Seek Paper challenges Scissors to a game of hide and seek. But in the time that Paper counts to ten, Scissors leaves the country... and the game ends up spanning the entire globe and taking decades to complete. Rock tries to play as well but finds that hiding is harder than he thought.

The First Lou Episode In order to get their garbage can landlord to lower their rent, Rock, Paper, and Scissors agree to help him achieve his dream of becoming a pop star.

The Weekend Story (featuring Pencil) When Pencil asks if Paper has any interesting weekend plans, Paper gets Scissors to help him have the most interesting weekend possible so Paper can have a story to impress Pencil with on Monday. Meanwhile, in an intentionally boring B-story, Rock shops for a hat.

The Susan Rock, Paper, and Scissors try to enter their car, The Susan, into a car show. But when they're made to believe the car isn't good enough, they try to change her in time for the competition.
